Qualifying Format Change

Beginning with Event 3 this weekend we will do the following for Qualifying in order to narrow the time differences and make it more competitive.

Based on experience, kart and track conditions consistently improve throughout the early sessions, resulting in faster lap times in later sessions.

So rather than group Drivers randomly as before, they will now be grouped by Class and Championship standings to level out the field a bit.

Classes will be arranged from lightest (GT1) to heaviest (GT4). The order within each Class will be arranged by points in descending order, meaning the points leader in each Class goes first.

On Saturday I will send more information about Sunday's Event. If anyone has any questions or issues, please email me directly.
